

Did your child just test positive for COVID? We need their help.

Your child can join the RECOVER study and get paid to help us learn why some children who get COVID will have long-term health effects and symptoms, called Long COVID.

Children with Long COVID may get new, ongoing, or returning symptoms – keeping them from playing with friends and going to school.

By joining, your child can help us better prevent and treat Long COVID in the future.

RECOVER

Researching COVID to Enhance Recovery

An Initiative Funded by the National Institutes of Health

Want more information?

Here's what you should know.

Can my child join this study?

Your child can join if they just tested positive for COVID (which means they have a current COVID infection). This includes children of all ages:

- Babies
- Preschool and school age children
- Teenagers
- Young adults up to age 25 years

We need children from all races, ethnicities, and backgrounds to join so we can learn about Long COVID in everyone.

You can also join as their parent or caregiver!

Why join?

Many children have already joined RECOVER studies. But we still need thousands of children to join to help us understand Long COVID. Researchers will compare children who had COVID to those who never did to answer these questions:

- Why do some children get Long COVID and others don't?
- What symptoms do children feel when they get Long COVID and how long do they feel sick?
- How does having Long COVID affect children's health and development, as they grow?

Will their information be kept private?

Yes! Your child's privacy is important to us. We will follow all laws to protect your child's personal information.

What will my child do if they join?

We'll pay you for your time and may ask you and your child to:

- Answer survey questions
- Have checkups and tests
- Take part for up to 4 years

This study will not give anyone a treatment or medicine for COVID. If your child joins this study, your child can still take treatments and medicines their doctor gives them.

Together we can
